Helpline for senior citizens in Haridwar

DEHRADUN, JUNE 17 (HTNS) : Jaipur based JK Lakshmi University (JKLU), who earlier launched a helpline for senior citizens in Rajasthan amidst the COVID-19 crisis, has now extended their support to help senior citizens in Haridwar.

The initiative is supported by Samarth Elder-care, India's leading elder care organization, and Senior Citizen Forum, Haridwar. The noble initiative was launched online in the presence of C. Ravi Shankar, District Magistrate, Haridwar, Dr. R.L. Raina, Vice-Chancellor, JK Lakshmi University Jaipur, Dr. Mahavir Agrawal, Ex. Vice-Chancellor, Uttarakhand Sanskrit University, M.K. Mittal, Ex-Director, BHBL & Patron, Senior Citizen Forum, Haridwar and Jagdish Palwa, Patron, Varishtha Mahasabha, Haridwar.

The helpline is being run entirely by a team of JKLU faculty, staff, students and alumni led by a committed core team of some senior faculty and staff members of the university.

Announcing the launch of helpline in Haridwar, Dr. R.L. Raina, Vice-Chancellor, JK Lakshmi University said, "Even if the lockdown is lifted in the entire nation, the effect of coronavirus doesn't seem to have led to a downward trend in the number of positive cases. The fear of infection is high among old people.

Initially we launched our helpline in Jaipur and extended it across Rajasthan. Our objective is to service elderly people who are more prone to COVID-19 infection.

Through this helpline, we facilitate them their daily requirements of food and medical help so that they can avoid going out and maintain social distancing at the same time. On an average, we receive 50 calls daily from elderly people.

The queries have been handled by our faculty and students and they try to resolve them on the same day."

Elderly people can call on the helpline number 7428518030 everyday between 9 AM and 7 PM and get help if they feel stressed or worried, need essentials such as food, provisions, medicines, want medical support or consultation, need information on COVID-19 from government, want to talk to one of the volunteers, or wish to learn about using technology to help in times of COVID-19.

Some Stories Shared by Eldercare Helpline Volunteers

1. A 75 years old Laxmi devi was living alone in Malviya Nagar Jaipur and had no one in the family on whom she could depend. Period of lock down and confinement in home added to her problems and miseries. She was out of food stock at home and could find no means to procure it. Sharing caring helpline team took her call on priority basis and delivered the food at her doorstep. The caring approach of the team bought smile on laxmi Devi's face and relived her from hunger.

----- Isha Singh Chauhan

2. Resident of Malviya nagar, Sheela Devi Sharma (Age:98) lives with her 70-year-old sister had lost their earning. Situation became tougher for them with passing days of lockdown. They were getting food from neighbors for 3 days and desperately needed help for free ration. Another nearby resident Manju Kumawat (60) working as domestic help was in similar situation. living alone with no work in lockdown period made Manju Kumawat starve for food. The student volunteer of helpline, Helpline took this case on priority and reached out to individual and phylanthropic organizations supplying free ration in Malviya Nagar. Continous follow up help supplies provide food to both the sufferers next morning.

-----Aayushi Jasoria

3. Ghanshyam Das (80 years) called sharing and caring helpline and sounded distressed, as prime need of his old age was medicines and food. Buying medicine and food was getting difficult with Loss of income. Fight for survival during lockdown was challenging for an 80-year-old. Sharing and caring team reached him and provided free food and medicines making life hopefull during the crisis.

----Amisha Sharma

4. The covid 19 outbreak lead to mass exodus of daily wage earners to their hometown and villages. In this state of conundrum helpline received call from one such daily wage earner who wanted to take his children to his hometown. He seemed helpless and worried and kept saying "please meri help kardo, mujhe apne bachho ko ghar wapas lejana hai." The sharing caring team guided him to provide basic numbers of administration and police to get permission to leave the city so that he could meet his parents staying alone in another city.

----- Gargi Gautam

5. Sharing Caring helpline has been great support to not only senior citizens but other sections of society during the time of covid crises. It is also acting as a channel connecting many needy and aggrieved to other helplines initiated by Govt. and private organizations providing support during lockdown. One such 45year old Radhey Shyam who was struggling to get food grains was connected to all essential helplines, providing free ration

-----Isha Singh Chauhan.

6. Lockdown brought great deal of misery for many daily wage earners. 75 year old Kaushalya Devi with injured knee and her blind daughter had lost their source of earnings. Helplessness and Hunger was making things difficult for them. Sharing caring helpline service delivery team successfully handled this issue. Beyond delivering of food the helpline volunteer provided the need psychological support and warmth of being their family.

----- Isha Singh Chauhan

7. Gordhan ji (70 years) resident of Johri Bazar had recently undergone eye surgery. Few medicine and eye drops were extremely essential for healing and recovery of his eyes. Situation of lock down and non-availability of prescribed medicine was making Gordhaji's life darker. Sharing caring helpline explored the operating medical store close to his location providing home delivery. Rigorous groundwork by the helpline made the required medicine available to Gordhanji by the evening same day. Getting medicine in extreme difficult situation brought new light in his life. He thanked the team and shared the helpline number to all his relatives and friends who need help.

-----Sanyam Mehta, BBA-II Year

8. We had a unique experience with the opening of the helpline for Elders during COVID crisis. There were different kinds of requirements from the senior citizens of our society and they had lot of expectations which we are learning to grapple with and live up to. Most of the calls which helpline received were related to medical and food requirements. There were cases where the caller was unable to move out of home and needed medicines from a govt dispensary but were unable to get either because the dispensary did not have stock of the medicine or because the caller was not in a position to go there. While we could arrange for medicines with payment, they insisted on getting medicines free. We are finding out how to solve this through the administration's intervention. There was a case where a particular old patient was showing symptoms of corona virus infection but did not know where to go get it done or whether the test could be done on call because the patient was too old to move. There was another case where a government hospital was not admitting a patient for an operation for a leg fracture. They do not have the means to treat at a private hospital. There were cases of people not getting their monthly pensions or PM Jan Dhan Yojana grants and asked us to help them get their dues. There was a case of a handicapped govt employee (although less than 60 – he's 55 yrs) who has to report on duty on 21st April but does not know how to because he does not have his own conveyance and public transport is not plying (he uses the "handicapped seat" in buses). There was another case of an autorickshaw driver (currently incomeless) who needed permission to drive his auto once to the mandi to buy fruits and vegetables so as to sell them locally so that he can earn some money. For people who need food to survive, we have connected them with organizations that provide free food. The cases appearing made us realize that little help from us can relieve a lot of stress of our senior citizens. The Sharing caring helpline is prepared to make a difference to the elders of our society during such difficult times.

----- Mr. Shounal Biswas, Asst Director Development, JKL

9. Mr. DP Agarwal, (98 years) living alone in his house near Gopalbari, Jaipur needed medicine and food. Talking to him it was clearly felt that the old man was sad and depressed more for the reason that he was left alone by his children staying in the same city. The helpline volunteer Diksha not only made him food and doctor consultation available but appraised his children about his sorrowful condition. The regular conversation over the days made Mr. Agarwal feel that he had someone to share his loneliness and take care of his old age worries. Follow up with his children also made them realize their responsibility towards their father. The helpline volunteer makes off and on call to check if things are moving well with Mr. Agarwal. The old man sounded happy and said "Mai bahut khush hoon, mujhe aur kuch nahi chahiye, mera beta khana lata hai mere liye" and gave his blessings. In present case the need was more for psychological and emotional support than for food and medicine. Feeling of being taken care of and closer to family made Mr. Agarwal feel happy and secure.

Respected Sirs,

We share the enormous pain and extraordinary challenge the world faces today, caused by the Covid19, a pandemic of the highest proportions in recent times. We completely appreciate the determined and strong leadership our Hon'ble Prime Minister has demonstrated for the world & SAARC region in general, and for India in particular, in fighting the pandemic. We also applaud the initiative taken by the Government to support the communities, labour and the needy, during these trying times.
